Visit to the Conservatory of Flowers

This month, we will not have a regular monthly meeting. Instead, we will be visiting the Conservatory of Flowers in Golden Gate Park. We will be able to visit the plants after the building is closed to the public. If you have never been to this conservatory, you are in for a treat. Each of the rooms is temperature-controlled for the plants in that room - and the plants are lush and happy! While there we may see a light art installation titled photosynthesis. One of the rooms is always devoted to a theme for specific types of plants. The current exhibit is devoted to butterflies and plants - an exhibit extended because of its popularity. Our host for the tour will be Mario Vega who curates the bromeliad collection.

We will not be having a show-and-tell of bromeliads or a plant raffle as we usually do. At the end of the tour, we will gather for refreshments and any business announcements.
